History: In 1894, the Prefecture Apostolic of Alaska was erected for all of present-day Alaska from a portion of the Diocese of Vancouver's Island (now Archdiocese of Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada), which had been subject to the Metropolitan See of Quebec City, Quebec, Canada. The Prefecture Apostolic was subject to the Metropolitan See of Seattle and was succeeded by the Vicariate Apostolate of Alaska in 1916. In 1999, the Diocese of Fairbanks was erected for the northern half of the state. In 1900, the Prefecture Apostolic reported 2,000 baptized Native American Catholics and in 1999 the three Alaskan dioceses reported 15,700 with Fairbanks alone reporting 15,000. Fairbanks and its predecessors have administered the following Indian and Eskimo missions, parishes, and schools in Alaska:
