ILLINOIS GAZETTE

September 25th, 1819--December 18th, 1830

This 2-volume set contains gleanings from the rare Illinois Gazette newspaper published from 1819-1830, in Shawneetown, Illinois. There were very few newspapers at the time Illinois was in its infancy, so this is a valuable resource for people searching for their relatives or just reading about the happenings of the day. It contains articles about marriages and deaths, commissioners reports, ads for runaway slaves, and much more. The newspaper was published for many years by James Hall, who was a well-known lawyer and author of his day. These excerpts were transcribed by Becky Schmook from microfilm, and is hereby offered to you by the Hamilton County Historical Society.
