A Note From The Editor

Hello Members,

I hope this issue of SCCOGS News finds you well and that your 2009 is off to a great start.! I have been working hard to update our website to a "cleaner", easier to navigate version. I have also updated the members page to include a list of members and surnames they are researching. Please let me know what you think and if you find any errors. The website can be found at www.sccogs.com.

I have also been working on several new volumes of publications for SCCOGS, and am happy to report that we now have several new volumes of Scioto County Obituaries for sale, as well as an updated version of Nile Township Cemetery Inscriptions. Please see page 13 of this newsletter for available publications, or visit our website for easy online ordering.

At our December meeting, the 2009 Slate of SCCOGS Officers were announced. Please see page 2 for the list of elected officers.

As a last reminder, please remember to pay your dues and submit any changes / updates. Our membership researchers listing will be in the March/April edition of the newsletter and I want to make sure we have your information up to date.

I hope you enjoy this issue of SCCOGS News.

The deadline for information to be included in the next newsletter is March 15th.

PORTSMOUTH GUARDS

At the start of the American Civil War, both the North and the South had to rely on individual states to supply the armed forces with men and supplies. In the case of Ohio, Governor William Dennison turned to the Ohio militia to provide the federal government with necessary troops. The Ohio militia system had been in decline since the end of the War of 1812. With Great Britain's departure from Ohio and the declining threat from Native Americans, Ohio's citizens and their government had felt little need to strongly this system for the state's defense.

In April 1861, following President Abraham Lincoln's call for seventy-five thousand volunteers to end the South's rebellion, Dennison dispatched George McClellan and Jacob Cox to the state arsenal in Columbus to investigate the guns and other supplies that Ohio had on hand to help equip the militia units. The two men discovered a few crates of rusted smoothbore muskets, mildewed harness for horses, and some six-pound cannons that could not be fired. Despite the lack of equipment, Dennison encouraged Ohio communities to revive the militia system and to form units that they would send to Columbus, the state capital.

While the state militia system had deteriorated, numerous communities had maintained units. These units existed primarily to march in parades and to provide young men with something to do in their spare time. Among these units were the Portsmouth Guards. This unit traveled quickly from Portsmouth to Columbus, answering the governor's call. It became Company G of the First Ohio Volunteer Infantry Regiment. This unit served as part of the first two Ohio infantry regiments organized for the war. Governor Dennison dispatched these regiments to Washington, DC, to protect the nation's capital, on April 19, 1861. This was just four days after President Lincoln's call for volunteers.

Grand Army of the Republic Death Roll Books

Founded in 1866, the Grand Army of the Republic (G.A.R.) became the largest association of Civil War Union veterans. The following three books contain death records of more than 90,000 members of the G.A.R. (1) Grand Army of the Republic, Department of Illinois; Transcription of the Death Rolls, 1879-1947 contains records of 1,955 veterans of Ohio Civil War Units. (2) Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska Civil War Veterans: Compilation of the Death Rolls of the Departments of Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, Grand Army of the Republic, 1883-1948 contains death records of 3,591 veterans of Ohio Civil War Units. (3) Indiana Civil War Veterans: Transcription of the Death Rolls of the Department of Indiana, Grand Army of the Republic, 1882-1948 contains death records of 1,859 veterans of Ohio Civil War units. To see if your ancestor is listed in one of these books, visit www.ngpublications.com If you would like to order any of the books, send $30 for each book plus $4 shipping for the first book and $1 for each additional book, and mail to: Dennis Northcott, P.O. Box 11801, St. Louis, MO 63105. Make checks payable to Dennis Northcott. Or you can print an order form from the website: www.ngpublications.com

*RULES FOR PLACEMENT ON THE ROSTER OF PIONEERS OF SCIOTO COUNTY, OHIO*RULES FOR PLACEMENT ON THE ROSTER OF PIONEERS OF SCIOTO COUNTY, OHIO

1. Pioneer ancestor must have lived within Scioto County's past or present boundaries on or before December 31, 1830.
2. Person making application must be a descendant of the pioneer.
3. Person making application must be a member of the Scioto County Genealogical Society. To become a member, send $15.00 dues to the chapter, P.O. Box 812, Portsmouth, Ohio 45662.
4. Proof is required to substantiate each ancestor as a pioneer. All materials submitted as proof should either be exact copies of original records or certified transcribed copies (made by an official of the office where the document originated). Each item submitted as proof must have an identifying statement which indicates what the item is and where it came from. All materials submitted by the descendant become the property of the Scioto County Genealogical Society and will be placed with their holdings in Portsmouth Public Library.
5. Records which can be considered proof include:
Official Courthouse Records like marriages, wills, estate papers, birth and death records, court suits, land and tax records, etc. In each of the above instances, notation should be made as to where the document can be located (ie, which office houses the document, what volume and page number it can be found on, etc.). Government Records like census schedules, military papers, and pension files. In each case, though, a statement identifying the pioneer as a resident of Scioto County should be included. If census records are submitted as proof, they should be actual microfilm copies of the original filmed record and not hand-written or typed transcriptions. Miscellaneous Records such as church, school, and voting records, as well as newspaper items and obituaries. Any unusual record which the applicant considers proof of residence will be considered by the panel of judges.
6. Examples of records which are not considered proof include: Bible records, unidentified documents, hear-say statements of descendants or individuals, death-bed oaths made by individuals, biographies and/or items from county histories, local histories, family record books, etc., and lineage papers from patriotic, heraldry, or family societies. These and other records, however, may be submitted as supplementary materials by the applicant.
7. An ancestry chart must accompany a completed, signed, and dated application and supporting proof materials. All information available to the descendant should be included on the chart, but the chart itself does not constitute proof of residency.
8. A $15.00 application fee should be included with all materials. This covers costs of printing certificates and mailing them to the applicant. If, for some reason, the judges feel that proof is insufficient to include the ancestor as a pioneer of Scioto County, the $15.00 will be returned to the applicant.
9. In addition, the applicant may wish to further honor his/her ancestor by including his/her name in the Northwest Territory Division of Pioneers of Scioto County, Ohio. Here, the ancestor must have lived in Scioto County's past or present boundaries on or before March 1, 1803 (the date of Ohio's statehood). With the exception of #1, the above rules apply here, as well. No additional fee is required to include the ancestor in this division.

If you and your ancestor meet the above requirements, please fill out and submit the Application for Status as A Pioneer of Scioto County on Page 5.

SCIOTO COUNTY

Chapter VI.

The Beautiful Valley of the Scioto.- The Fertile Banks of the Ohio.

A short sketch of a few of the first settlers only can be given: Samuel Marshall, Sr., the first pioneer and permanent settler of Scioto County, was born June 29, 1789, in Washington County, Penn. His father came to the Northwestern Territory to seek a future home for his family. He came down the Ohio in company with General Anthony Wayne, who was sent out by President Washington to conclude a treaty with the Indians. In February, 1796, Mr. Marshall loaded his goods into his pirogue and moved up to a point about three miles above the Scioto River, and nearly opposite the mouth of Tygart's Creek, where he concluded to locate. He built his house out of pickets or puncheons split out of the body of a tree, three or four inches thick, and as wide as the tree would make. He dug a trench in the ground and set these pickets in so as to include a space of eighteen or twenty feet square and covered with the same material. He banked the earth up around the outside, to keep out the cold winds, and used the ground for a floor. Into this he moved his family, consisting of four children, himself and wife. Two of his daughters had married in Manchester and remained behind. Those who came with him were Jessie, Samuel, Polly and Salina. This was the first house built and occupied in Scioto County. When (if it could be called a house) in the month of February, 1796, there was not another human being, either white, black or red, in Scioto County. From Keyes's history of the Marshall family, this summing up is taken: "We claim for Samuel Marshall the credit of being the first settler in Scioto County who came here with the intention of making this his permanent home. That he built the first cabin and raised the first crop of corn; that the first person married in the county was his daughter, and that the first child that was born in the county was his child." The first child born as above mentioned, was Fanny, who, on reaching womanhood, married George Skunkwilder. She was born in the year 1797.

Robert Lucas.-Among the pioneers who left their mark upon the historical record of this valley, as well as the State and county, was Robert Lucas, Surveyor, Legislator, Senator and Governor of Ohio. The following is taken from Mr. James Keyes's biographical sketches of early settlers of Scioto County. Governor Lucas was also a resident of Pike County, and his early history belongs to the Lower Scioto Valley: "We now come to one in the family who for forty years occupied a large space in the politics of the country. He came with his father to this country in 1800, of mature age, and qualified, both by education and practice, to take a very active part in all the matters pertaining to organizing and placing the new State and county in a proper condition for self government. We see by the records of the first courts held in this county, that Joseph Lucas, his brother, was appointed an Associate Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, and Robert Lucas, County Surveyor. This was in 1804. He took an active part in organizing militia for the defense of the country in time of war. The county was organized into one regiment, two battalions, and ten companies; the regiment met once a year for training and mustering, and they held their general musters, as it was called, on the farm of Martin Funk, it being the most central point in the county. Lucas was the first Brigadier General in the country. The battalions and companies met two or three time a year, to drill. Delinquents were always fined, and the fines were generally collected, so that mustering in that day was no mere child's play, but always meant business and had to be attended to. "In 1808, a 4th of July celebration was held on the farm of Major Isaac Bonser, which was a grand affair for that day. People came from far and near; it was not a little neighborhood affair, such as we have nowadays, but they came from distances of thirty or forty miles. General Lucas was the principal man of the day, and delivered the oration. He was well qualified, both by education and abilities, to take the lead in all the enterprises of the period. "On the opening of the war of 1812 General Robert Lucas (he was General of the militia volunteers), went to join Generals McArthur and Hull. He failed in getting a command as he expected,

Extract from The History of the Lower Scioto Valley, 1884

but remained during the struggle, and was surrendered at Detroit with the army under Hull. The next year, 1813, he went out as Brigadier-General, at the general call of that year. They went to Sandusky but too late to be of any service, as the British and Indians had been driven off before they got there. The campaign lasted forty-four days. This appears to have ended General Lucas's military life. We next hear of him as a politician. In the fall of 1814 he was elected to the Senate of the State of Ohio. Here he remained without failing to be re-elected, until 1828, a period of fourteen years, so that in politics he seemed to succeed much better than he did in the military line.

"It was in the latter years that he was beaten by General Kendall. Lucas was also on the electoral ticket for an Andrew Jackson Presidential elector. "This system of electioneering perhaps had a good deal of influence in determining the election. General Kendall was elected to the Senate, but General Lucas was elected Presidential elector. Kendall had a great many friends and no enemies, and in the Senatorial district, he came out far ahead of Lucas, who always had a happy faculty of making some enemies as he went along. But the State going in favor of Jackson, Lucas was elected. "In 1832, the Democratic party being fully organized, brought Lucas out for Governor of the State. He was elected, and made a very good Governor, and I believe he was re-elected in 1834. In 1838, he was appointed by Van Buren, Governor of Iowa, and this wound up his political career in Ohio. He sold off his property and removed to that flourishing Territory, where he remained till the day of his death.

A few words now as to his domestic history, and we have done. He was first married to Margaret Brown about the year 1810. The next year she died with the consumption, leaving one child, a daughter. He remained single till about the year 1818, when he married for his second wife Friendly Sumner, daughter of Edward Sumner, a wealthy farmer of the French Grant. He purchased a tract of land about two miles from Piketon, in Pike County, and there he built an elegant mansion, and otherwise improved the place, until he had one of the finest country residences in the State. They left a portion of the original forest standing near the house, in all its primeval grandeur. Mrs. Lucas, being a woman of taste, decorated it with all the care and skill she could bring to bear upon it; she called it Friendly Grove, from her own name. Mr. Lucas spent all the time he could spare from his official duties at home, working on his farm. The neighbors all spoke highly of him as being a good neighbor, and a very friendly gentleman in all his intercourse with those who had any dealing with him. His daughter, whom he had by his first wife, grew up to be a fine young lady, and married Horatio Nelson Sumner, Mrs. Lucas's youngest brother, thus becoming father-in-law to his own brother-in-law. When Governor Lucas received the appointment of Governor of Iowa, he sold off all his possessions in Ohio, and removed his family to his new field of labor. He had seven children by his last wife, and when he left for Iowa the rest of the Lucases all left for the same place, so that the name of Lucas has become extinct in this part of the country, except the name of Lucasville, which will remain as long as the city of Lucasville has an existence."

John Collins, came in the fall of the year 1796 and located in Alexandria, putting up the third house in that now deserted place. He became the first Associate Judge of the County, and his house the first court-house, and held a prominent position in the county for over thirty years. David Gharkey was another of the pioneers who became a representative man in the county. He came to Alexandria in 1799, and was one of the last to leave it in 1814. He was Auditor for ten years, Treasurer one term, and served in the first Town-Council of Portsmouth, after its incorporation in 1815. He was a noted man in his day, and of an aggressive nature.

Preserving Your Records

To insure that your genealogical records are preserved after your death, you should print the form below, complete it and append it to your will.

GENEALOGICAL CODICIL TO MY LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

To my Spouse, Children, Guardian, Administrator and/or Executor:

Upon my demise, it is requested that you DO NOT dispose of any or all of my genealogical records, both those prepared personally by me and those records prepared by others which may be in my possession, including but not limited to books, files, notebooks or computer programs for a period of two (2) years.

During this time period, please attempt to identify one or more persons who would be willing to take custody of the said materials and the responsibility of maintaining and continuing the family histories. (If you know whom within your family or friends are likely candidates to accept these materials, please add the following at this point: "I suggest that the persons contacted regarding the assumption of the custody of these items include but not be limited to" and then list the names of those individuals with their addresses and telephone numbers if known.)

In the event you do not find anyone to accept these materials, please contact the various genealogical organizations that I have been a member of and determine if they will accept some parts or all of my genealogical materials. (List organizations, addresses and phone numbers and contact persons, if available, as well as state/national contact information and addresses.)

Please remember that my genealogical endeavors consumed a great deal of time, travel and money. Therefore it is my desire that the products of these endeavors be allowed to continue in a manner that will make them available to others in the future.
