A Note From The Editor

Hello Members,

This issue is filled with historic articles from past newspapers, two requests for information and a little bit of humor. I hope you enjoy it. Perhaps something to enjoy inside the warmth of your home, while the leaves begin to change, they skies turn gray and the winds begin to blow for the fall season.

For those who live in Scioto County, Trick or Treat is scheduled for Tuesday, October 30th from 5:30 to 7:00 p.m.

SCCOGS is still looking for a newsletter editor and webmaster. If anyone would be interested in either one of these positions, please contact one of the officers listed on page 2. They really need someone who can dedicate more time to these jobs than I can at the moment.

Until the next edition, here's wishing the best for you and yours.

At the July SCCOGS Board meeting it was discussed about allowing all viewers of the SCCOGS website to read the newsletters and not limiting it to members only. Giving the membership a special sale for a quarter changing it from time to time .It had been suggested that other OGS counties websites have opened their newsletters for all viewers. Pat stated that she viewed Jackson County Chapter and they restrict the current newsletter but have past newsletter open for review. She also stated that OGS will have their newsletter digital in 2013. Pat asked if there were objections to placing the newsletter on line with the availability to be viewed by member and non-member.

A motion was made by Terry Minch and seconded by Jim Saddler to place the newsletter on the website and available for everyone to view. All in favor

REQUEST FOR PICTURE OF GRAVE MARKER

Good morning, Gladys,
You were so kind in 2010 to locate and take pictures of my great grandfather William Rocliffe's marker at Evergreen. You also looked for my Aunt Elsie Rocliffe Hall's marker in the Old Kinney Cemetery, but were not able to locate it.

Please put the following in the next newsletter.
As always, I appreciate your help.

"I'd like to visit the Old Kinney Cemetery where my Aunt Elsie Rocliffe Hall is buried. Is anyone maintaining the cemetery and have the marker's been repaired and organized?"

The library has inscriptions from Martha Birchum of Chickasha, OK, via Margurite Ramsey including Aunt Elsie's marker:

Elsie Radcliffe Hall
w/o Peter Kinney Hall
1879 - 1944

I am interested in locating Aunt Elsie's marker and would pay the finder $50."

PORTSMOUTH HISTORY— ACCIDENTAL DEATHS

Quartet In Boat Feared Drowned

Article taken from The Marion Star, December 26, 1935

PORTSMOUTH, O., Dec. 26 - Two men, a boy and a girl, believed drowned in the Ohio river 22 miles southwest of here, were being sought today. The four started across the river from Gand Springs, O., to Vanceburg, Ky., in a skiff just before Wednesday's blizzard struck, and have not been seen since.

Officials conducting the search believed the high wind overturned the boat, and that the occupants were unable to reach shore. Willard Kennedy and Corbett Porter, addresses undetermined, and an unidentified boy and girl, were in the skiff. The craft, as well as the occupants, is missing.

Portsmouth Has A Mysterious Crime: Man, Woman Killed

Article taken from The Coshocton Tribune, October 30, 1921

Portsmouth, Oct. 29. - The most mysterious and sensational murder case in years is today engaging the attention of authorities of Scioto county, and it is hoped that during the day some clue may be unearthed which will solve the enigma of whose hand held the weapon that killed John W. Newman, 26, and Miss Louis Doyle, 18, whose bodies were found yesterday in an abandoned house on the Scioto trail seven miles north of the city.

The couple dropped out of sight on the night of October 21. Newman, who is married and the father of three children, had, to all appearances been living happily with his family. The girl made her home with her mother. So far as now known neither were seen alive again except by the person who fired the shots which resulted in the double murder. The bodies of Newman and his companion were found late yesterday in a little room in the abandoned farm house. They learned of the tragedy, Coroner as tho it had been laid out on a slab. The body of the girl formed a pitiful little heap nearby. Decomposition had already set in. Scouting the theory of a suicide pact, the first thought of many as they learned of the tragedy. Coroner J. D. Henrickson declared there is no doubt that a double murder was committed. In substantiation of his theory he points to the fact that Newman was shot three times and that the death weapon was not found. The bullet which killed Miss Doyle entered the left breast near the nipple, pierced the left lung, then the heart.

Two farm hands, Roscoe Chandler and Harvey Lyons who had been sent to place the house in condition for occupancy made the gruesome discovery yesterday afternoon.

Physicians declared that the death dealing bullets must have been fired at close range. Powder burns are showing on the right side of Newman's head and his hair is singed.

Newman, who was secretary of the men's Y. M. C. A. in the city, was looked on as a model young man. His widow, who is prostrated with grief says that he drew his wages at the Excelsior Shoe Co. where he and Miss Doyle were employed, last Friday. Most of the $60 was found in his clothes.

Relatives of Miss Doyle declare that a diamond ring found on her finger was an engagement token. This, however, is denied by the young man who has been in her company in recent months.

The auto in which the couple is believed to have left the city a week ago was found abandoned ten miles from the place where the bodies were found the day after they disappeared. There were no blood stains or any other evidence of struggle apparent on the auto and when found it was thought to have been abandoned because of lack of gasoline.

Confesses Killing of Girl and Man

Article taken from the Ironton Evening Times, 11-7-1921

Portsmouth, Ohio, Nov. 7.--The mysterious murder of Miss Louise Doyle, 19-year-old church worker and J. W. Newman, father of three children, was believed solved today with the alleged confession of Roy Shamblin, 27 years old.

Plans were made for Shamblin to repeat his tale of the murder in a deserted shack near here a week ago before the Scioto County Grand Jury today or tomorrow. He was arrested in Cincinnati Saturday.

Shamblin's curiosity resulted in a double murder, according to the account given Sheriff Rickey, who made the arrest. The night of October 28 Shamblin was on his way to visit relatives in Portsmouth when he passed the abandoned cabin. He said he noticed an automobile outside and entered the cottage to investigate.

Shamblin said a brick was thrown at him and he opened fire at the silhouetted figures. The third shot brought Newman to the floor. When Miss Doyle attempted to flee, he grabbed her, pressed the weapon to her breast and fired, the alleged confession said.

HUMOR

A woman brought a very limp duck into a veterinary surgeon. As she laid her pet on the table, the vet pulled out his stethoscope and listened to the bird's chest.

After a moment or two, the vet shook his head and sadly said, "I'm sorry, your duck, Cuddles, has passed away." The distressed woman wailed, "Are you sure?" "Yes, I am sure. Your duck is dead," replied the vet.

"How can you be so sure?" she protested. "I mean you haven't done any testing on him or anything. He might just be in a coma or something."

The vet rolled his eyes, turned around and left the room. He returned a few minutes later with a black Labrador Retriever. As the duck's owner looked on in amazement, the dog stood on his hind legs, put his front paws on the examination table and sniffed the duck from top to bottom. He then looked up at the vet with sad eyes and shook his head.

The vet patted the dog on the head and took it out of the room. A few minutes later he returned with a cat. The cat jumped on the table and also delicately sniffed the bird from head to foot. The cat sat back on its haunches, shook its head, meowed softly and strolled out of the room.

The vet looked at the woman and said, "I'm sorry, but as I said, this is most definitely, 100% certifiably, a dead duck."

The vet turned to his computer terminal, hit a few keys and produced a bill, which he handed to the woman. The duck's owner, still in shock, took the bill. "$150!" she cried, "$150 just to tell me my duck is dead!"

The vet shrugged, "I'm sorry. If you had just taken my word for it, the bill would have been $20, but with the Lab Report and the Cat Scan, it's now $150."

Request for Information

Hi Gladys,

I'm hoping you might pass along the following request to your membership. I am currently re-searching the 39th O.V.V.I. for a new book. This will be a regimental history and an addition to my two earlier regimental histories (91st O.V.I., published 2005, and Heroes of the Western Theater: 33rd O.V.V.I., published in 2008) both of which were awarded the Oliver Hazard Perry Award for Ohio Related Military History, by the Ohio Genealogical Society. My last book, Treasure Memories of a Civil War Widow, was published in 2011.

As you may remember, I was born in Portsmouth, but grew up in Piketon where my parents were both teachers. I have always felt that the contributions and sacrifices made by the soldiers and their families of south-central Ohio, (ie., Ross, Pike, Scioto, Adams, Jackson, and Gallia) have, for some reason been neglected and no regimental histories had been published on these regiments - 91st, 33rd, 39th, and 56th Ohio. My goal is to remedy this - time and energy permitting.

As with all of my research, my focus is on the personal stories and experiences of the men; therefore, I am always searching for family stories, letters, diaries, journals, photos, etc. that pertain to the soldiers. If you could assist me in anyway in identifying and contacting anyone with information pertaining to the 39th, or suggesting other avenues to pursue this request, I would be very grateful.

Thanks for any help.

Tornado Devastates Scioto County April 23, 1968

from various articles in The Portsmouth Daily Times, April 24 - 27, 1968.

A few minutes after 4 p.m., Tuesday, April 23, 1968, a funnel cloud, generating wind estimated at more than 110 mph, touched down in the Sunshine community near South Shore, Kentucky, then swept north-east through the Kentucky hills across the Ohio River, cutting a 2,500 foot wide swath through Wheelersburg.

In a few minutes it claimed 7 lives, injured 75, and caused more than $2 million in property damage. The storm smashed 69 dwellings and 28 barns, and damaged 476 other buildings. Several hundred trees were shattered or uprooted, and miles of electric power and telephone lines fell as supporting poles were bowled over.

Every ambulance in the area was used to transport the injured to Portsmouth's hospitals. Fire departments rushed men and equipment to the scene. Governor James A. Rhodes dispatched Ohio National Guard units and Ohio Highway Patrol officers to assist with the massive rescue operation and safeguard property.

Damage at the Scioto County Airport at Minford was estimated at nearly $20,000 to 10 planes. Four of the planes were damaged beyond repair.

According to Roy Looft, Scioto Airport Manager, "The clocks stopped at 3:30 and the electricity went out. The storm lasted about 20 minutes."

About half of the trees in the popular Airport Grove picnic-recreation area were uprooted.

A Minford man, Selca Cordle, was injured when the barn in which he was seeking shelter from the storm collapsed on top of him. Mr. Cordle lived on Kentucky Trail.

A steel tower carrying the 138,000 volt transmission line feeding Portsmouth from South Point was twisted like an egg beater and fell in a mass of steel scrap on Dogwood Ridge.

In Wheelersburg, the velocity of the wind blew 11 train cars off the track. Ten overturned, and one landed in a ditch.

At 6:30 a.m. on April 24, 1968, search parties were organized and combed the wreckage throughout the area for possible missing persons. Passes were issued to residents of the area to keep sightseers and looters out of the area. A curfew was established from 6:30 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. Beds and a cafeteria were set up in the gym of Wheelersburg High School to serve rescue workers and homeless families.

To help the residents of Wheelersburg, the American Red Cross set up disaster headquarters at Wheelersburg Elementary School. The Red Cross later moved to the Wheelersburg Masonic Temple Building. For residents outside of the Wheelersburg area, the Red Cross set up headquarters at 1032 Kinney's Lane, in Portsmouth.

The victims of the tornado were:

Linda Underwood - 15, was killed when her house was lifted off its foundation and blown about 50 feet across the road.

Walter Ackerman - 68, died in the emergency room at Mercy Hospital.

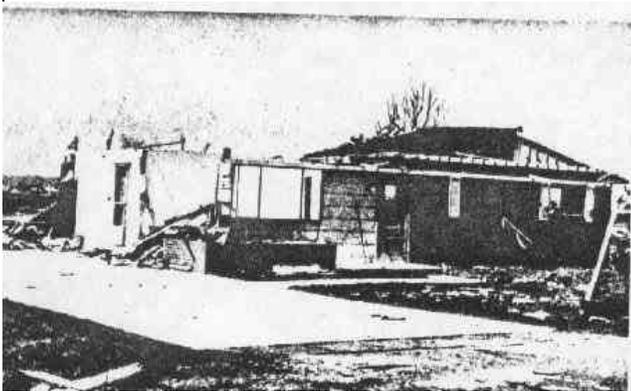

Mary Adkins - found dead in her damaged home

Clyde Avery - killed at Tony Boll's Farm Supply Center. Dead on arrival at Harrison Funeral Home in Wheelersburg.

Joe Chatfield - killed at Tony Boll's Farm Supply Center. Dead on arrival at Harrison Funeral Home in Wheelersburg

George Lambert - 85, died at Scioto Memorial Hospital.

Anna Lou Armstrong - 25, killed at her brother's home (brother was Dave Litteral).

Fire Destroys $200,000 Second Presbyterian Church

Article taken from The Portsmouth Times, September 27, 1933

PORTSMOUTH, OH, Sept 27 -(AP)- The second Presbyterian church, here, was practically destroyed by fire early today.

The interior of the beautiful brown edifice was a mass flames before the blaze was discovered shortly after 4 o'clock the fire started in the chapel adjoining the main auditorium from defective wiring and spread to the main part of the structure before it was discovered.

Built in 1910 at a cost of $200,000, the church was the third of same name to be destroyed under mysterious circumstances in the last 40 years.

The first Second Presbyterian church was destroyed by a dynamite explosive in 1896. A nonmember of the congregation who felt he had a grievance against the church blasted the original church. He committed suicide when arrested.

Then several years later the church constructed to replace edifice was destroyed by a fire.

Many valuable windows, donated by members of the congregation, long since dead, were destroyed by today's blaze.

The Rev. Morris P. Stoute is pastor of the church destroyed today. The building was fully covered by insurance.

Portsmouth in Flames

Article taken from the Alaska Citizen, March 31, 1913
Columbus, March 30 -

The whole town of Portsmouth, situated on the Ohio at the mouth of the Scioto, is in flames and the inhabitants are fleeing for their lives. The water is flowing in various parts of the city with a depth of 70 feet. The Scioto river has changed its entire course and is now in the bed that it occupied prior to 1884 when it changed. The territory along the old river bed has been thickly inhabited and the river is flowing through the residences that are not already swept away.

Doc Goodpaster Turns Detective and Sends Two Shots After a Bologna Thief

Article taken from The Daily Times, August 9, 1895

Wednesday Night - Not a Good Marksman and misses the Fugitive - Watchman Turner and Policeman McFarland Have Set-to Over the Matter - Turner Bounced.

George Turner, private policeman, etc., who was hired to keep an eye on Capt. A. W. Williamson's coal and the Brushart Lumber company's yards, has come to grief, and has been requested by Mayor Row to have in his resignation and turn over his badge. This George has agreed to do. There has been much opposition to Turner's appointment on account of his having a rather "colored" record, but the primary cause of his being bounced arose from a little episode which took place Wednesday night. The scene of said episode was "Doc" Goodpaster's store. It seems that there has been considerable petty thieving going on in the neighborhood of Twelfth and North Waller streets, but no one could locate the guilty party. Goodpaster and Watchman Turner determined to do a little detective work and run the thief to earth. So Wednesday night they hung a couple of pieces of bologna sausage outside the store and then hid themselves to wait for something to "turn up." Pretty soon four young people, two boys and two girls, came along, and one of them hooked a piece of the sausage. Goodpaster darted out and compelled the youngster to give up the sausage and then ordered the whole crowd to stand still until Turner could get around and place them under arrest. The little fellow who was the guilty party, declined to stand still, and started to run off. This action excited Goodpaster, who promptly drew a revolver and fired at the fleeing youngster, but did not hit him. By this time Turner got around on the scene and began trying to get the remainder of the crowd to give the name of the fellow who fled. Officer McFarland in whose beat all this row took place, was attracted by the shooting and came up: It appears that there has been much feeling between McFarland and Turner on account of the latter boasting that he had to help Arthur keep things quiet in his ward. When McFarland grasped the situation he also grasped his club and informed Turner that if ever he caught him trying to make arrests again in his ward he would give him a good clubbing and arrest him. McFarland also made a complaint to the mayor against Turner and as a result Turner's badge has been taken away. Capt. Williamson et al are now looking for a new watchman and Turner is repenting at leisure.

Mrs. Meyers Inherits Money Her Good Luck

Mrs. Meyers, a Ninth Street Washer Woman, Said to Have Inherited Several Thousand Dollars

Article taken from The Portsmouth Times, December 8, 1894

The German government at once instituted a diligent search, and succeeded in locating several of the relatives of the deceased in this country. Mrs. Meyers being among the number. It is said that her share of the fortune will amount to several thousand dollars. Her friends will be glad to hear of her good fortune. Mrs. Meyers has left for Dayton where she goes to look after her claims.

Off-Duty Dayton Policemen Face Burglary Charge

Article taken from the Lancaster Eagle Gazette, August 29, 1962

Portsmouth, Ohio

Charges were to be filed in nearby New Boston today against two Dayton policemen in the burglary of the New Boston Eagles' Lodge early Tuesday.

The pair, off-duty, sped away from the scene and were injured when their car crashed into a roadblock in Chillicothe.

Lt. Kenneth Williams, head of the Dayton police personnel investigation unit, said one of the patrolmen, Joseph Arthur Kindy, 38, admitted to the burglary as a "spur of the moment thing." The other man, Patrolman Henry C. Taulbee, 29, declined to make a statement, Williams said. Kindy's 1959 convertible, driven by Taulbee, slammed into a tractor-trailer which was being used by Chillicothe police for a roadblock. Taulbee was seriously injured. Both officers were admitted to Chillicothe hospital.

The crash ended a 45-mile chase by highway patrolmen along U.S. 23 from north of here. One of the highway patrolmen said the chase at times got up to 120 miles per hour.

Patrolman R. L. Barton of the Portsmouth patrol post said the Dayton officers tossed a metal box from their car at Massieville near the Ross-Pike county line. He said the box, taken from the Eagles' lodge, contained $156.

Roger Henson of Sciotoville discovered the burglary when he entered the lodge about 2 a.m. He said he saw lights and thought the lodge was still open. Henson said one of the men fired two or three shots at him before they fled to the car.

Toll-Free Bridge Set

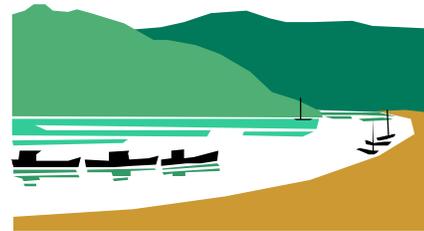

Article taken from The Hillsboro Press Gazette, May 2, 1974

Frankfort, Ky. (AP) --- A ribbon cutting ceremony was scheduled this afternoon at the Grant Bridge on the Ohio River---marketing the removal of tolls on the span connecting South Portsmouth, Ky. and Portsmouth, Ohio.

Kentucky Gov. Wendell Ford and Transportation Secretary James Gray were to join in the ceremonies. Ford and Ohio Gov. John Gilligan arranged the agreement, in response to recommendations from citizen groups and leaders in the two states who stressed that a free bridge would establish stronger ties between Portsmouth and nearby Kentucky communities.

Under the original bond payment schedule, the debt would have been paid off and the bridge made toll free late in 1975.

The ceremony was to take place in late afternoon after a parade from Kentucky to the Ohio side of the river.

First Towboat to Pass Portsmouth

Article taken from The Portsmouth Times, Saturday, June 5, 1965

The first towboat that passed Portsmouth was the Condor, built in 1835 by the Pomeroy Coal Company.

The Condor also was the first steamboat on the Ohio River used for towing coal.

Pittsburgh coal was not sent down the Ohio River by steamboats until 1845.

The Water Forward was the first steamboat to tow coal from Pittsburgh.

River Traffic Suspended

Article taken from The Columbus Dispatch, October 18, 1895

Special to the Dispatch, Portsmouth, O., Oct. 18

The Ohio river stands at 15 inches in the channel, within an inch of the lowest mark recorded here, that of November, 1884.

All steamboat traffic is at a standstill from Pittsburgh to Cincinnati. A large number of small boats have been beached or sunk in an effort to make one more run before tying up.

The continued drought is greatly impeding the operation of brick works and furnaces in Scioto, Lawrence and Jackson counties. The Cincinnati Portsmouth & Virginia and the Baltimore & Ohio southwestern branch have been obliged to use bank cars for over two months, hauling water from here to their points on the line to supply their freight engines, there being no place on these lines between Portsmouth and Cincinnati, or Portsmouth and Hamden Junction where a supply of water could be depended upon.

Last Buffalo in Scioto County

Information taken from The Portsmouth Times, Saturday, June 5, 1965

Phillip Salladay is credited with the last buffalo kill in Scioto County around 1801.

Salladay reportedly killed the beast while hunting with his boy on Pine Creek, near what is now Chaffins Mills.

Salladay and the boy crept up close to the buffalo and Salladay shot it.

The animal was wounded, and charged them.

As the boy was getting his rifle ready to shoot, the father snatched it from him and killed the buffalo.
