Clergy List, 1858-1869 York County, Canada West

compiled by Pat Jeffs

York County marriages for the period from 1858 until July 1869, when civil registration began, were recorded centrally in the office of the County Registrar. Each clergyman conducting marriages was obliged to send or take his list to the registrar's office annually. The registrar's clerk copied the details into 500-page formatted volumes which requested the names of the bride and groom together with their ages, their birthplaces and residences, the names of their parents, as well as the names of the witnesses and the date of the wedding. The description of each marriage went across two open pages. Returns from clergymen were numbered consecutively as they arrived in the registrar's office. Toronto and York County shared the same registrar's office until at least 1862. As a result two returns from large Toronto Catholic Churches have ended up in the York County Register.

All the county marriages for the decade have been microfilmed on to one reel which is available either through Ontario Archives and large Ontario reference libraries (MS248 reel 18) or Family History Centres in Latter Day Saints' Churches (1030068).

When I looked at the reel I discovered it was arranged in three volumes. Volume 84 covered the whole of the county for the period from 1858 until part way through the reporting for 1862 when they ran out of pages. The numbering of the returns in Volume 85 carried on where Volume 84 left off, but the volume only covered the southern part of the county: the townships of York, Scarborough, Etobicoke, Markham and Vaughan. Volume 86 was started at the same time with returns numbering from 1 and covered the northern townships of King, Whitchurch, East and North Gwillimbury and Georgina. All three volumes have page numbers as well as return numbers, but whereas in Volumes 84 and 85 a left-hand and a right-hand page had different numbers, in Volume 86 one page number was allocated to each two-page spread.

Many of the returns have been transcribed and are online at Mary Crandall's Ontario Marriage Registrations at <http://homepages.rootsweb.com/~maryc/thisisit.htm>. I wanted to do some more transcribing and decided it was best to start by making an index of the returns themselves. That way I could figure out which had been done and which still needed doing. My list included the return and page numbers, the year, the clergyman, his denomination, and where his church was located. This last piece of information was not always given--many ministers had a circuit covering a large area—so I used the bride's residences instead since these would probably indicate where the marriage had taken place even if there was not a church in the area.

With my list complete I realized it could be useful to sort it by clergymen as well as chronologically. It may be of use should you be trying to track down an individual minister and link him to his religious denomination and to the areas he served. The establishment of a church in a village is one indication of increasing population density and shows the desire of the inhabitants to make a settlement into a permanent community.

No one should ever trust these marriage registrations for an accurate description of any marriage in 1865. Registrar Ridout did not have a trustworthy clerk that year. A number of bride's surnames do not quite tally with those of their parents, and in one case the bride's parents were the same as the groom's! I hope the ministers' own registers give a better picture.
