Family Search. Researching in Family Search. From Family Tree Magazine. These tips are for the old Family Search. Do try the Batch Number tip, tho.

<http://www.familytreemagazine.com/article/Family-Search-Secrets>

Family Search Historical Records. From About.com.

http://genealogy.about.com/od/free\_genealogy/a/familysearch.htm?nl=1

Family History Centers. A list of the FREE Premium Family History Websites available in the LDS Family History Center Portal such as Ancestry, Find My Past, Footnote, Genline, Heritage Quest and more. These are only available in the local FHC.

https://help.familysearch.org/publishing/699/106761\_f.SAL\_Public.html

RootsWeb. Started in 1989, RootsWeb was one of the earliest genealogy websites. In 1996-7 RootsWeb supported US GenWeb and GenWeb county websites. RootsWeb is now owned by Ancestry.com but the RootsWeb pages are still free and user contributed.

<http://www.rootsweb.ancestry.com>

RootsWeb Database Indexes. Lists the contributed info by state and by county. All can be easily searched at one time.

<http://searches.rootsweb.ancestry.com/>

RootsWeb Email Lists

Subscribe to the email list of your ancestor's county. Email will come into your inbox from people researching the county of interest. You will learn about the county and learn from the content of the questions. Post a query of your own. Access the knowledge of the list. (Lola)

Look on RootsWeb's Home page in the left hand column for Mailing Lists.

http://www.rootsweb.ancestry.com/mailling\_list

Subscribe to your ancestor's county's email list. In the Search box type the name of the county and the state.

<http://bigfile.rootsweb.ancestry.com/cgi-bin/listsearch>

Subscribe to your family surname's email list. Click on the first letter of the surname.

<http://www.rootsweb.ancestry.com/~maillist/surnames/index.html>

Subscribe to your family's ethnic group's email list. Type the name of the ethnic group in the Search box.

<http://bigfile.rootsweb.ancestry.com/cgi-bin/listsearch>

Subscribe to your family's church group's email list. In the Search box type the denomination.

<http://bigfile.rootsweb.ancestry.com/cgi-bin/listsearch>

RootsWeb Message Boards. Read them all with this search.

http://boards.rootsweb.com/?o\_iid=33216&o\_lid=33216

RootsWeb Registry of Websites

<http://www.rootsweb.ancestry.com/~websites/>

RootsWeb Town Search. Use this handy tool to find in which county your town is located, and to see RootsWeb websites for your town.

<http://resources.rootsweb.ancestry.com/cgi-bin/townco.cgi>

RootsWeb's Guide to Family Trees: Sources

<http://www.rootsweb.ancestry.com/~rwguide/lesson12.htm#ources>

U.S. Gen Web. Organized by county and state this website has links to all the state websites which, in turn, provide gateways to the counties.

<http://www.usgenweb.org/>

US GenWeb Archives Search Engine by State. The Archives are a "virtual library" of transcribed historical documents such as wills, obituaries, letters, biographical sketches, county and township histories, census, cemeteries, etc. This will vary by state and county, dependant upon what has been submitted. (Lola)

<http://usgwarchives.net/search/searcharchives.html>

US GenWeb Archives Special Projects. The USGenWeb Archives sponsors Special Projects at the national level and this website provides an entry point to all of those page. Many states also have ongoing projects as diverse as the transcription of Civil War regiments or the reuniting of families with lost photos, bibles, etc.

<http://usgwarchives.net/>

US GenWeb Archives Daily Uploads. This daily email to you lists all of the files uploaded to USGenWeb Archives the day before. It is a LOT of info in one email message, but easy to scan to see if any new information is of interest to you. If not, delete. Sign up and give it a try!

<http://www.usgwarchives.net/mailman/listinfo/dailyuploads>

World GenWeb. Like U.S. Gen Web there is a web page for every country offering data and research help.

<http://www.worldgenweb.org/>

Social Security Death Index. Available free at both

RootsWeb. SSDI is under Search Engines and Databases.

<http://www.rootsweb.ancestry.com/>

Family Search. Under Browse by Location click on USA. Scroll down to "U.S. Social Security Death Index."

<https://www.familysearch.org/>

Cyndi's List. It has a bit of everything to do with genealogy. Wander through the lists and try a few.

<http://www.cyndislist.com/>

About.com. Genealogy. Info about everything - 800 Guides, 70,000 topics. Look over all their genealogy articles.

Online Searchable Death Indexes.

<http://www.deathindexes.com/>

Family Tree Legends. Sellers of Legends software. Check out their free indexes under Records.

<http://www.familytreelegends.com/records>

Family Tree Magazine website. Lots of free articles and research tips. Hover your mouse arrow over the menu bars at the top to see the drop down lists.

<http://familytreemagazine.com/>

GeneaPro. Mainly a listing of professional researchers, but check out their FREE Resources on the Menu Bar.

<http://geneapro.com/>

The Library of Congress. Digital Collections & Services

<http://www.loc.gov/library/libarch-digital.htm>

Library of Congress Local History and Genealogy

<http://www.loc.gov/rr/genealogy>

The National Archives and Records Administration . Access to Archival Databases

<http://aad.archives.gov/aad/>

Olive Tree Genealogy. 1700 free genealogy databases, plus links to additional offsite databases. Over 1,000 of these free genealogy databases are ship passenger list transcriptions, but there are also free military records, and specialized databases such as Loyalists and Mennonites.

<http://www.olivetreegenealogy.com/freedata.shtml>

Steve Morse's One-Step Search Engines. Morse has simplified searches for several popular databases.

<http://www.stevemorse.org/>

Phone Books. Library Spot's White Pages. Lists online "phone books" to help you find missing "genealogical cousins."

<http://www.libraryspot.com/whitepages.htm>

Surname Meanings and Origins. From About.com.

http://genealogy.about.com/od/surname\_meaning/a/surname-meanings.htm

Surname Navigator

<http://www.geneaservice.nl/navigator/> This is fun. You get many hits from different sites from everywhere. (Trudy)

World Cat. Find genealogy books such as family histories or county histories that you need to see in a library near you with World Cat.

<http://www.worldcat.org/>

Write Your Family History. From About.com

http://genealogy.about.com/od/writing\_family\_history/Writing\_Publishing\_Your\_Family\_History.htm

YouTube. Family history can sometime be found in unlikely places. One such place is YouTube, an Internet website. I belong to a MyFamily website belonging to descendants of several early settlers of eastern Kentucky. They not only share family information and pictures but other tid-bits that might be of interest. One was on a now defunct railroad that had been in the area many years ago and now all traces were gone. The text was well written and the pictures a great visual addition. I decided to try other areas with YouTube. It worked and found it can be a great place for historical background. (Alice)

Here are some samples:

This is the one on the old railroad in eastern Kentucky.

Best Records for Finding Female Ancestors. From Family Tree Magazine, 2010.

<http://www.familytreemagazine.com/article/BestRecords-for-Finding-Female-Ancestors>

Books Online – Genealogical & Historical

Google Books. Many copyright-free books free to download. Old county histories often have short family histories of their well-known residents along with history and descriptions of the land and towns. First try searching the county or town name. For actual titles look for bibliographies of books about your county or town of interest at US GenWeb, your state, county and town libraries and historical societies and in our Genealogy Room. I found lots of old county histories here! (Judy)

<http://books.google.com/>

Google eBooks

At Google Books, click on Go to the Google eBookstore. Put the words "Family History" in the search box and click the All Google eBooks button. Then choose the Free Only link. There are plenty of county histories and old surname books that are out of copyright. Also put your surname of interest after "Family History" in the Search box.

<http://books.google.com/>

Internet Archive. Another site that contains lots of copyright-free books free to download including county histories, Massachusetts Town Records and the NEHGS Journals. A wonderful resource! (Judy)

<http://www.archive.org/details/texts>

http://www.archive.org/details/additional\_collections

Family Search/BYU Family History Archive Digitized Books. Don't be overwhelmed by the number of books to sort through.

In the Browse window choose Family History Book Collection, then put a surname in the Surname search box and click Search.

<http://www.lib.byu.edu/fhc/index.php>

Genealogy Book Links. Free digitized books for reading online or download. Mainly from Google Books and Internet Archive. Do check out their long, long list of biographies!

<http://www.genealogybooklinks.com/>

Cemeteries/Tombstones/Obituaries

Find-a-Grave. This is a volunteer project to photograph tombstones. You can get birth and death dates from the photos of the tombstones and sometimes more information is posted by someone researching that person. I have had good luck finding tombstones for the brothers and sisters of my ancestors so I can then look for their obituaries which may tell me who their parents were. (Judy)

<http://www.findagrave.com/cgi-bin/fg.cgi>

Interment.Net. Cemetery and burial records from around the world contributed by volunteers. Very incomplete.

<http://www.interment.net/us/index.htm>

US GenWeb Obituary Project. Incomplete, it is in progress.

<http://usgwarchives.org/obits/>

Census

Family Search Census Images. Under Browse by Location click on USA. Scroll down to "United States." All are indexed but images are not available for 1860 and 1880. But they are available through the Family History Center Portal website to subscription sites. See "Family History Centers" under "General" above.

<https://www.familysearch.org>

Internet Archive. Copies of all of the U.S. Censuses to read online or available for download. They are large and load very slowly.

http://www.archive.org/details/us\_census

US GenWeb Census Project. Census transcriptions for every county. Not complete as it is in progress.

<http://www.us-census.org/states/>

<http://www.usgwcensus.org/>

Subscribe to the US GenWeb Census Project newsletter and keep up with the latest records.

To subscribe or unsubscribe from the list, send an email to with the word 'subscribe' or 'unsubscribe' without the quotes in the subject and the body of the message. CENSUS-ANNOUNCE-request@rootsweb.com

Mortality Schedules

1850 at Family Search. Under Browse by Location click on USA. Scroll down to "United States Census (Mortality Schedule).

<https://www.familysearch.org>

All Available Schedules 1850-1880. This site is a bit deceptive. Some of the states on their list have no mortality schedules, and most that do are US GenWeb sites you can access from the county GenWeb page.

<http://www.mortalityschedules.com/>

Church Records

Computers & Genealogy

Windows Snip Tool & Windows Print Screen in Vista and Windows7. Some websites will not allow Save As or copying of pages or images. You can get around that with the Snip Tool or Print Screen. The Snip Tool is located at Start/All Programs/Accessories. Save it to your desktop, then drag it down to your Status Bar to keep it in easy reach. The Print Screen key on your keyboard will copy the image on your screen. Paste it into Word/WordPerfect/NotePad/WordPad and print. The result is an image which, unfortunately, is very poor resolution, but at least we don't have to copy the info by hand. (Alice)

Google Alerts. Google Alerts are emails sent to you when Google finds new results -- such as web pages, newspaper articles, or blogs -- that match your search term. You can use Google Alerts to monitor anything on the Web. Genealogists can use family names or places for the search term. (Bobbi)

Family Tree DNA. This company is one which sells the test.

My husband is taking part in this surname DNA project which has been very interesting. We started with the basic 25 marker test and recently upgraded to the 67 marker test. They run specials occasionally where the price is lowered a little. We don't have all the second results back, but have been in contact with other Vances who are related. (This is done with those who agree to release the information.) I'm pretty sure I've found a Vance born in the 1770s that he is descended from, but am not sure which of that Vance's sons (or grandsons) ties him in. I'm hoping the second test will close that one or two generation gap I still have. (Karen)

www.familytreedna.com

DNA SURNAME STUDY GROUPS. Each company that does tests has Surname Study Groups. This is just one of them.

Family Tree DNA Surname Projects. To see the results of tests done by this company for men with your surname, in the Projects Search box on the upper right, type in your surname. At the next screen, Surname Search Results, click on the surname in the Projects window. Next click on the surname in the Project Website window, then the yDNA results. You should see a page with zillions of colored numbers. (Judy)

<http://www.familytreedna.com/Default.aspx>

Below is the page for the surname Cox: The names down the left side are not the names of the men who were tested, but the earliest known ancestor from the genealogical research of the men tested. The names are grouped by how closely the test numbers match. Note the number of names whose DNA matches the Coxes but are not named Cox. (Judy)

Google Earth Street View. “Drive” down the roads your ancestors walked on or view your childhood home. At Google Maps type an address in the Search Maps box and click Search Maps. If your address is in a town, a photo of the house should appear at the upper left. Click on the photo and the map turns into a video standing in front of your house.

If there is no photo, then note the red marker on your address on the map. Find the orange man on the zoom tool at the left of the screen and drag him to the red marker holding the man over the point of the red marker. The map will turn into a video of that address. Using the arrows you can “drive” up and down the street and turn corners, and holding down the left button of your mouse on the screen drag it to view either side of the street. This is so fun! ## Newspapers - Historical

[Note: I found that many websites claim to have “historical” newspapers or “small town” newspapers but they start about 2000! (Judy)]

Google’s historical newspaper website. This site has newspapers from large cities, such as The New York Times and The Los Angeles Times, etc., indexed by ProQuest, which charges a small fee for a copy of an article, but there are some small town newspapers here also. If you find an article in a ProQuest newspaper go to the Family History Center and see if it is available on one of the free subscription websites. See “Family History Center” above under “General.”

The newspaper that was a bonanza for me was the Lawrence, Kansas, newspapers from the later 1880s to 1940. I found a death notice for a great grandfather, neighborhood news about my dad’s family, a notice that my maternal grandfather was the leader of the winning team at a local rabbit hunt and that he lost a gray mule in 1907! (Judy)

The Missouri Digital Heritage website. Click on Collection, then scroll down to Newspapers. I got no results using individual papers, but got lots using the Search for the whole website. Then I had to sort through the hits that were not mine, but at least I got some hits. I’m probably missing something here. Be sure to note where the additional page buttons are near the left middle instead of the usual bottom of the page. (Judy)

Passenger Lists/Immigration

Castle Garden. "This free site offers access to an extraordinary database of information on 11 million immigrants from 1820 through 1892, the year Ellis Island opened." Original manifests can be downloaded. You may need to be creative with the spelling of your immigrant's name to bring them up in the index. I found my 1854 Swiss immigrants in these lists! (Judy)

<http://www.castlegarden.org/>

Ellis Island. The Ellis Island Foundation runs this website. It contains most of the manifest records during the years the facility was operated to intake immigrants from 1892 to 1954. I have had a lot of success using this site to find immigrant ancestors; and clues on their origins and destinations. (Bill)

"If you're looking for a common name, select Advanced Search from the Passenger Search pull-down menus to access additional search options, such as similar-sounding names, year of arrival, town of origin and ethnicity." (Fam Tree Mag, May '07, p58)

This is a very helpful site on how to do research on your Finnish ancestors. It provides addresses, phone numbers, email, older maps. It tells you where and what records are available and how to search the Family History Library where many of the records are available. (Trudy)

Finland GenWeb

<http://www.rootsweb.ancestry.com/~finwgw/index.html>

Institute of Migration. Passenger lists, passports, etc.

<http://www.migrationinstitute.fi/sinst/emigrantregister.php> In English.

This site is helpful in finding out if your ancestor is listed on passports or immigration records. This is the free part. The name is listed and birth date of an individual. I found about half of those I'm researching listed. I have their immigration records but not their passport records so I feel that the 15 Euro they require to obtain the full record is worthwhile to me. That covers a full year membership. (Trudy)

Genealogical Society of Finland. Their HisKi project is putting Finnish church records online.

<http://www.genealogia.fi/sss/indexe.htm>

I think this is a work in progress and may eventually be very helpful. I was ready to give up after not having found anything when I tried using just a last name, area and date for one of my relatives and found some of them listed on earlier years in the Christened, one in the Married section and some in the Buried section. (Trudy)

Encyclopedia of Genealogy: Finnish Genealogy

<http://www.eogen.com/finnishgenealogy>

This is an online reference manual. It gives a very good description of Finnish Church Records and what they contain. It also describes passenger lists, where the Finnish people traveled to get to the ship they embarked from and what type of records are available and how to obtain them. It also tells about the military records and gives some of the history of the military and how to obtain these records. (Trudy)

English Finnish Dictionary

<http://www.fincd.com/>

Finland's Family History Association

http://www.digiarkisto.org/sshy/index\_eng.htm

All digitized material is free to everyone on this site. They have church records available with 416 parishes to search through. They have some census records online but are not capable of large amounts yet. (Trudy)

Helsinki City Library

<http://www.lib.hel.fi/en-GB/>

There are many free online databases at this site. They have an historical newspaper database but unfortunately it is not available in English and most of the early information is in Swedish. It is worth checking out. (Trudy)

National Archives Service of Finland

<http://www.arkisto.fi/en/etusivu/>

I believe this site ties in with the above site of Finland's Family History Association. This was difficult to connect to anything on this site. There is a lot of information on the National Archives of Finland so it is informative but I didn't have any luck with the digitized information. I would recommend it be looked into. There could be future improvements. (Trudy)

National Land Survey of Finland

<http://www.maanmittauslaitos.fi/en>

This map provides access to the National Land Survey topographic maps by place names and coordinates. (Trudy)

Surname Navigator

<http://www.geneaservice.nl/navigator/finland/index.html>

This is fun. With just one name you can get many hits from many different sites from everywhere. (Trudy)

My FIRST revelation was requesting copies of obituaries with all of my surnames and I did that from both the Bismarck ND and the Nebraska groups – and got some duplicates of the actual obituaries but also others that I didn't know about. It was like treasure!! The Clearing House keeps me updated on what the current projects are – and I'm always looking for more information on my village/area. Learning the history and the culture was fascinating to me and working with a Village Coordinator opened up the microfilm through the LDS library that I could actually "see" my records and cite the sources. Joining the group gave me access to information that has been transcribed and is otherwise not available to the public. Also, books are available for sale and trips to the Russians villages are part of this organization as well. (Lola)

US GenWeb Antrim County, Michigan

This Antrim County, Michigan website is a part of the U.S. Gen Web project. This website has county records, including births, deaths, marriages, divorces. It includes locations of probate and land records and addresses to contact them. The site also has a section on family histories and family trees. (I have not been able to determine how I can have my family history included, although I have tried and am still trying.) The site has a connection to send queries to Antrim County through RootsWeb. I have used this resource a couple of times. There is a section that lists books for sale that refer to the early Antrim County history. I have purchased a very useful book and a CD using this listing. (Lonny)
